Hereva Consultants, Inc., was formed in 2014 to provide dynamic project management services to clients and business owners undertaking new or expanded real estate initiatives. From the initial planning stages of a project to its completion, Hereva brings expertise to the table every day to solve the challenges that make real estate projects so complex. Our mission is to provide forward thinking solutions to the demanding design and construction environment where technical knowledge is required and expert management is the key to success.

Hereva embraces the entrepreneurial spirit and is dedicated to the growing innovation and technology community - we strive to support new ideas and the people who generate them. Our primary market sector is bio-technology; however, our expertise extends throughout a range of industries, including corporate, life science, health care, and manufacturing.

Headquartered in Boston, Hereva has offices in Cambridge MA, San Diego CA and London UK. Most of our clients and projects are in the greater Boston area, however we support clients with their projects on both coasts in the US, the UK and Europe.

Project Methodology:

Our project management expertise is based in providing cost, contract and value management throughout the design and construction process. By providing a commercial foundation we ensure our clients' projects are delivered and their expectations realized. We believe the best projects are successful because of proper planning, proactive communications, and diligence in execution.

Understanding core project management principles and dedicated to representing the needs of our clients, Hereva also believes the success of a project depends on the relationships that are created. We achieve results for our clients and strive to exceed expectations by facilitating and engaging the customer, client, and all key stakeholders. Our value is in the energy, dedication, and experience our people bring to the process.
